Readings for today: Genesis 15:5-12, 17-18; Philippians 3:14-4:1; Luke 9:28-36

Dear friends,

I am only a couple of years older than Shane Warne (even though I look much younger), so the suddenness of his death has a striking impact. Some lives seem detached from the realities of this world, particularly celebrities who seem to exist on a much larger canvass than we ordinary folk.

But in the end, even superstars must confront their mortality, and leave this earthly realm, no matter how prematurely. As someone said, “If Warnie can die, it could happen to any of us”. Death will happen to us all; let us pray that we are ready when the moment comes and all those prayers uttered and sighed from the depths – “now and at the hour of death” – will carry us into the world that awaits.

St. Paul prods our thinking about mortality and eternity today. He tells us that our true homeland is in heaven, and this fleshy body will be transformed into an image of the glorified body of Christ. This is the Christian perspective on death and finitude for no earthly body lasts forever. While we live merrily ignoring the inescapable end result, St. Paul wants us to think about our true destination.

St. Paul urges us to consider the inconceivable; that the best is yet to come. And he adds, “Do not give way but remain faithful”. In other words, do not fall into despair, or be swallowed up in sadness, or be trapped in hopelessness. When we find ourselves jolted by brushes with mortality – our own and others – we are invited to contemplate this promise of consolation.

St. Paul’s hope-filled image is not a glib remedy for our real fears of death or the anguished grief of separation, but the power of the insistent and gentle promise whispered in the midst of life’s darkness. These are not the sentimental utterances which reduce people’s “eternity” to the length of our memory or the space of our hearts. This is about what God intends for every human being: a life freed from decay and finitude, gifted with a “body” transformed by the power of Love and Life. Who knows what this transfiguring will look like or feel like but it remains our hope, not crafted in fantasy, but fashioned by trust that the compass of the human heart knows precisely where to find our fulfilment.

PRAYER FOR PEACE AND JUSTICE IN UKRAINE

God of peace and justice, who change the hardened heart and break the power of violence, we entrust the people of Ukraine to you.

Protect them in this time of peril; let them know not death but life, not slavery but freedom.

You are Father of all; we are brothers and sisters.

Give us the strength to live that truth in love, choosing peace not war.

Through Christ our Lord.

Amen.

ENTRANCE SONG

Psalm 27

At the conclusion of the Introit, a bell is sounded. The assembly responds as the Choir and Ministers process towards the altar with the following translation of the Introit text. The first verse (which is the Antiphon) is repeated after the final verse.

Antiphon:

My heart declared to you, O Lord:
 "Your countenance my soul has sought;
 My heart shall ever seek your face;
 Do not reject me, O my God"

My light, my Saviour is the Lord,
 Of whom should I have any fear?
 He is the stronghold of my life;
 Whom should I dread if he is near?

One thing alone I ask of God:
 To dwell in his most holy place,
 To seek him in his holy court
 And see his beauty face to face.

All glory to the Father, Son,
 And to the Holy Spirit be;
 As from the first it was, is now,
 And will be for eternity.

Tell no one about the vision

COMMUNION HYMN

CWB 467

Christ is the world's light, Christ and none other;
 born in our darkness, he became our brother.
 If we have seen him, we have seen the Father:
 Glory to God on high!

Christ is the world's peace, Christ and none other;
 no-one can serve him and despise another.
 Who else unites us, one in God the Father:
 Glory to God on high!

Christ is the world's life, Christ and none other;
 sold once for silver, murdered here, our brother —
 he, who redeems us, reigns with God the Father:
 Glory to God on high!

Give God the glory, God and none other;
 give God the glory, Spirit, Son and Father;
 give God the glory, God with us, my brother:
 Glory to God on high!

Text: Psalm 118: 47-48

Christ is the world's light, Christ and none other;
born in our darkness, he became our brother.
If we have seen him, we have seen the Father:
Glory to God on high!

Christ is the world's peace, Christ and none other;
no-one can serve him and despise another.
Who else unites us, one in God the Father:
Glory to God on high!

Christ is the world's life, Christ and none other;
sold once for silver, murdered here, our brother –
he, who redeems us, reigns with God the Father:
Glory to God on high!

Give God the glory, God and none other;
give God the glory, Spirit, Son and Father;
give God the glory, God with us, my brother:
Glory to God on high!

Be still, for the presence of the Lord, the Holy One, is here;
come bow before him now with reverence and fear:
in him no sin is found we stand on holy ground.
Be still, for the presence of the Lord, the Holy One is here.

Be still, for the glory of the Lord is shining all around;
he burns with holy fire, with splendour he is crowned;
how awesome is the sight our radiant king of light!
Be still, for the glory of the Lord is shining all around.

Be still, for the power of the Lord is moving in this place;
he comes to cleanse and heal, to minister his grace;
no work too hard for him in faith receive from him.
Be still for the power of the Lord is moving in this place.
